The New Yorker Review and Opinion (H14)

Wednesday: 2 p.m. – 3:15 p.m.  Fall Term 2019

Instructor: Carol Banz

Course summary – The class reviews and discusses various articles that appear in The New Yorker magazine. Everyone is encouraged to share summaries and opinions on various articles and offer their viewpoints for the class to consider. Participants are requested to have a subscription to The New Yorker.

Class format – as outlined in the Course Summary will be followed in weeks #1 through #14. The materials and topics will change from week to week based on the current issues.

Video format – will follow the timeline covered by the latest issue of the magazine.

Instructor biography – Carol Banz has a B.S. and a M.Ed. from West Chester University and graduate study from the University of Delaware. She has thirty-two years’ elementary teaching experience in Pennsylvania and Delaware schools. Carol created and developed this course and has facilitated it for eleven terms at OLLI.