

CONTROVERSIAL ISSUES

Several days before the class, students will be emailed with the timely topic for the next class. It is up to the student to “read up” on the issue, whether by newspaper articles, TV media, periodicals, etc. During class, after a brief introduction of the topic, discussion will proceed with orderly comments. The co-facilitators will encourage all to speak up, in an attempt to not have a few people dominate the discussion. Respectful discourse is expected by all.
