

Our course consists of speakers who give illustrated lectures on topics related to gardening. Lecturers may be from the University of Delaware, local nurseries or organizations or may be members of our class or instructors from related classes. The course content is determined by the speakers we choose. A specific list will be available when we have confirmed dates with speakers.