

Each week will be a presentation on a specific aspect of health care. Some classes will be guest speakers while others will be presented by the course instructor. Questions and discussion will be encouraged. Involvement in the class could include hands on learning. No preparation is involved, although topics to be discussed may help the student prepare with questions.